CONDITION OF FAMILIES SAID TO BE "WORSE"

Wet Witnesses Declare Moral Surroundings Not Improved

BULLETIN
Washington, April 13—(AP)—The House alcoholic liquor traffic committee voted today to begin next Tuesday on a general survey of conditions under prohibition.

Washington, April 13—(AP)—Three more witnesses, called by the wets, told the Senate prohibition committee today the moral conditions had grown worse under the Volstead act.

One of them, Father Francis Kasasun, of Sugar Knot, Pa., painted for the committee a graphic picture of wide open saloons, wild carousals by young people, drunkenness in homes, and intoxication among school children in the anthracite towns of Pennsylvania.

Police statistics from many cities were submitted by Stanley Shirk of the Moderation League to support his assertion that arrests for drunkenness, particularly among automobile drivers, had taken an enormous upward swing since the dry regime came in.

Woman is Witness.
The last witness of the day, Mrs. Viola Anglin, deputy chief probation officer in the New York City family court, declared cases before the court had increased since prohibition because the wives and children are suffering more than before.

"The prohibition officers under my direction tell me that in their districts they can find 150 or 200 stills, she said. "These are not only operated in cigar and other stores but also in the homes."

"Tenements are the homes of stills; you open a door and instantly get a whiff of the stuff they make. The children are there and must know all about it."

She added that while "the material condition" of the wives and children had improved under prohibition their "moral condition" had not.

The hearing got back to the wet side of the question today after devoting two hours to the opening of the dry case by a group of women representing church, temperance, civic and other organizations who are here attending the meeting of the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement.

May Extend Hearing.
The wets are expected to conclude presentation of their testimony against the Volstead act and in favor of prohibition before the end of the week after which the prohibition advocates will have 22 hours to place their opposing contentions in the record. Although the Senate committee planned to complete the hearing in two weeks, it was unable to give the modificationists more than 13 hours of their allotted 24 last week, and it appears likely that the sessions will continue through next week.

The law enforcement conference went into its concluding sessions today with Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of large cases, as one of the principal speakers. Like assistant Secretary Andrews, chief enforcement officer of the treasury, she urged in her prepared address that the women work to build up the sentiment in favor of prohibition observance.

Puts It Up to Women.
Mr. Andrews called for the day when hostesses "will feel apologetic for serving cock tails, rather than for not serving them," and Mrs. Willebrandt said that "women can set social standards on the foundation of law observance."

"They can make it stylish to observe law," she declared, "and surely their minds are facile enough to find sources of so called humor outside the boot-legger's jug."

Having in no uncertain terms informed the prohibition committee of their uncompromising opposition to the modification of the Volstead act, the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement today issued a challenge to the American people to "uphold the constitution" and listened to the advice of speakers who asked them to pound at the job of building up sentiment for law observance.

Principal among these speakers was Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, who is in charge of the department of justice liquor prosecution forces. She said "watchful units of women" can keep public officials delivering their best efforts, even though such officials at times be the kind that "unwatched would fight the task in hand."

Other Women in Pleas.
Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in a statement read to the conference, asked "why not be honest with ourselves and admit that our children will not be the high minded, fine people that we want and expect them to be unless we—our parents—set

LOONEY'S PLEA FOR BAIL WILL MEET HARD FIGHT

Barbour Filed Opposition in Anticipation of Move

Springfield, Ill., April 13—(AP)—Anticipating presentation of a petition for release on bail pending an appeal of John Looney, now in the Joliet penitentiary for the murder of William Gabel, Rock Island saloon keeper, James J. Barbour, special assistant attorney general, today filed suggestions with the clerk of the supreme court in opposition to such a petition.

The suggestion will be filed formally after bail for Looney is requested. It is expected that counsel for Looney will file the petition shortly.

Barbour's suggestion opposes the granting of bail on two main points. That the offense of which Looney was convicted is such that the defendant is not entitled to bail and that Looney "if set at large, even on strong bail, the state would probably cheat itself of its prisoner by absconding or in some other way."

Barbour is support of his last contention said that Looney was a fugitive from justice and was arrested in New Mexico only after a reward for his capture had been offered, and that he opposed extradition.

RECORD TO SPRINGFIELD
Galesburg, Ill., April 13—(AP)—Attorneys for John Looney went to Springfield today with the voluminous record of the murder case here. They announced an appeal and application for release on bail would be filed with the supreme court tomorrow.

O. O. Askren, former attorney general of New Mexico, and R. D. Robinson of Galesburg are the attorneys representing Looney in the appeal action.

The appeal is to be based on the contention that the verdict in which Looney was sentenced to serve 14 years in the penitentiary was not in accordance with the evidence, and that Looney is too ill to remain in prison.

Funeral of Former Dixonite Was Held

The remains of Ed T. Smith, former Dixonite, arrived here at noon yesterday from Chicago and were taken down to Oakwood cemetery where a brief service was conducted and interment took place. Smith of Chicago; a daughter, Mrs. Gooder and son of Marengo; a son, Hal Smith and wife of Oak Park and a cousin, Kenneth Smith of Lansing, Mich. While in Dixon the members of the family were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCreary. Mrs. H. B. Hopkins, formerly Anna Smith came from her home in Detroit and attended the funeral services conducted in Chicago Sunday. Percy Smith, another brother, has for many years been a missionary in Japan. Two Murderers' Pleas Before Pardons Board

Springfield—Arguments will be heard tomorrow by the state board of pardons and paroles for commutation of sentences in the cases against Raymond Costello, Cook county, and Emil Pricker, Madison county, both sentenced to hang next Friday for murder.

CINDERELLA AND BROWNING FACING NEW COURT ACTION

Realtor and His Young Bride Back in N. Y. for Fight

New York, April 13—(AP)—Edward W. Browning, wealthy 51 year old real estate operator, and his 15 year old bride of three days were back again today in Cold Spring, N. Y., the scene of their marriage, with trouble from a new quarter threatening.

Special District Attorney Ryder of Putnam county announced that an investigation will be started to determine whether they violated a law requiring a six months legal residence before obtaining marriage license.

The bride already is under summons to appear in the New York children's court in action started by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children seeking to have her removed from the custody of her mother.

The Brownings left here last night by motor for Cold Spring and their ten room honeymoon house specially leased by Browning. They had come here by separate routes yesterday morning.

Bride Taken Ill.
When they departed last night accompanied by the bride's mother, they intended to go to Montreal but changed their plans at Yonkers when the bride complained of feeling ill. Earlier in the day she had visited a doctor who treated burns from acid which, she said before the marriage was thrown by an unknown intruder in her mother's Manhattan apartment while she was alone.

It has just been revealed that a few hours before his marriage, Browning had transferred nearly valued at $162,000 to a corporation he controls. The transfer however, aroused some curiosity as to the effect on the bride's dowry rights.

Browning has applied for renewal of his pistol permit. He obtained authority to carry a pistol about a year ago, when he alleged a man had tried to blackmail him.

The Telegraph will be "on the job" all night.

The Telegraph's leased Associated Press wire will be open all night, to bring in returns of the election from throughout the state and patrons are invited to call this office, telephone No. 5; Stratton & Covert's, phone No. 291; or the United, phone 114, for returns.

PEGGY JOYCE IS TO MARRY AGAIN SHE ANNOUNCES

Fifth Husband to be a Wealthy Miami, Fla., Realty Operator

Miami, Fla., April 13—(AP)—Peggy Hopkins Joyce, whose internationally known matrimonial ventures have been terminated in the divorce court, will marry again. Announcement was made here today by the stage and screen star that she was engaged to marry Stanford E. Comstock, wealthy Miami real estate operator and member of a prominent Chicago family.

Miss Joyce did not announce the date of the intended wedding but intimated it might be before she sailed for Europe on May 1 to make her next picture.

As she told of the engagement, Mr. Comstock stood by her side and nodded assent.

NOT KNOWN IN CHICAGO
Chicago, April 13—(AP)—Two of Peggy Hopkins Joyce's four husbands have been Chicagoans, but of fourth husband to identify her indicated fifth husband, Stanford E. Comstock, as a Chicagoan, were unavailing.

Her first husband was Everett A. Archibald, a young Denver salesman, to whom she was married May 15, 1910 when she was 17. He refused to consider her continuing her stage career and when she insisted, divorced her.

Three years later Sherburne T. Hopkins of Washington, reputed oil millionaire, became her second husband and provided her with one of the names she now uses. That marriage failed in a few years, and January 23, 1920 her first Chicagoan was added to the list—J. Stanley Joyce.

MANY QUESTIONS BEFORE ELECTORS IN TODAY'S VOTE

World Court, Prohibition, Boxing and Improvement Up

Chicago, April 13—(AP)—The world court, prohibition, legalized boxing, public improvements and zoos were among a multitude of issues involving today's state-wide primary.

While chief interest probably has been directed on the republican senatorial fight and some of the congressional battles, the Illinois boxing bill has come in for fair share of attention.

Chicagoans also were handed ballots calling for $19,000,000 of bond issues for civic improvements. They also are deciding whether they want a zoological park.

In the republican senatorial battle Illinois is choosing between Senator William B. McKinley and Frank Smith, chairman of the Illinois Commerce Commission, the latter an enemy of the world court. Senator McKinley, who planned to vote early and then return to Washington to resume his senatorial tasks, defended his vote for adherence to the court on the ground of party regularity.

Democrats Inactive
In the democratic senatorial column appeared the names George E. Brennan, veteran party leader and foe of the Volstead act; former Congressman James McDermott and Joe Monroe. None has made an active campaign.

One of the most bitter of the republican, congressional contests involved Representative Fred A. Britten and Mrs. Bertha Baur, wealthy Chicago society woman, each a proponent of prohibition modification.

The treasuryship is the chief state nomination at stake. Four thousand state and city officers were mobilized in Cook county for election duty.

First disorder incident to the election was reported last night when three negro precinct captains were kidnapped from a political meeting on the west side.

Outbreaks Reported
Several outbreaks of minor violence were reported as voting progressed today, although unusual precautions had been taken to keep down disorder.

Before the polls opened trouble started in the 14th precinct of the 24th ward, where a judge of election, Barney W. Ehrlich, was beaten severely and an attempt made to kidnap him. A clerk at the same polling place was reported missing.

A precinct captain named Sand in the 13th precinct of the 20th ward was kidnapped from his home by three armed men. The election commissioners did not act, however, as a precinct captain has no connection with election machinery.

Police said Sand was a Deneen faction precinct captain and his father said their car bore a Crowe-Barrett banner.

Anthony Czarnecki, election commissioner, said after a tour of inspection that trouble was expected in the 24th ward where automobiles loaded with thugs were cruising the streets. Several minor quarrels occurred early.

Brother in Law of Dixon Woman Plans Florida Building

The building is owned by James O. Barker, and the construction work is being done by Contractor W. R. Baker.

When the building is completed there will be two stories, each measuring 60x24. They will have concrete floors and walls, and the roof will be of fire-proof material. The trimmings and outside stucco will give a Spanish effect.

According to the owner, one of the store buildings is already leased to a grocery company that will move in as soon as the work is completed. The other is expected to be leased soon.

Three weeks' work has already been done on the building and the floors are laid, walls finished, and the roof is in the course of construction.

RIOT ACT HAS BEEN INVOKED IN NEW JERSEY

Police Promulgates It to End Disorders in Mill Strike

Passaic, N. J., April 13—(AP)—Strikers in the Garfield textile mill district were under riot act regulations today following a clash between police officials and strikers yesterday, when the officers used riot guns and clubs. Strike leaders were arrested. Several persons were injured when the police charged the strikers.

After the riot act was read strike signs were torn out of windows by the officials and the meeting place of the strikers closed.

While the riot act regulations were being put into effect, 2,000 children of strikers absented themselves from school in protest against the activities of the police.

The strike has been in effect two months with approximately 10,000 workers on strike.

ANSWER "WHAT IS A DEMOCRAT?" IN NAT'L CONTEST

Leading Senators of That Faith Have Decided It

Washington, April 13—(AP)—The answer to the question "what is a democrat?" has been found, the Pathfinder published here, announced today, on the basis of findings by Senator Robinson, Arkansas; Harrison, Mississippi and Edwards, New Jersey, as judges of a contest in which 20,000 participated. First prize went to Dr. M. D. Taylor, county health officer of Aztec, N. M., who submitted this definition:

"A democrat is one who believes in the fullest freedom of speech, press and religion; the separation of church and state; laws that bear equally upon all classes without special privilege or monopolistic advantage; rights of states against national paternalism."

Edwin Alexander Hulse, "confidential secretary" for democrats of the Senate, was rated second with the definition:

"Democrat is one who votes to adhere to the principles of the party as expounded by Jefferson, Cleveland and Wilson, which assure personal liberty, freedom of religion, speech and press; equal justice, industry, corruption and privilege and preserving inviolable the republic in vigor and union."

Voliva's Foe to Quit Zion City for Waukegan
Zion, Ill., April 13—(AP)—The Rev. Thomas Nelson, pastor of an independent church here who has been embroiled in many contentions with Wilbur Glenn Voliva, general overseer of Zion, during the last decade, is quitting his pulpit.

The Rev. Mr. Nelson, a former supporter of Voliva, announced that he is going to Waukegan, Illinois, to conduct a tabernacle.

When the Rev. Mr. Nelson broke away from Voliva and organized his own church, Voliva publicly termed him "a tom cat, a discredited wind bag and a blatherskite."

The preacher alleged libel and brought suit against the overseer and obtained a verdict of one cent and costs.

"I am not quitting because Voliva has licked me," the preacher told his congregation last night. "Opportunity for service appears to be greater in Waukegan."

The WOMAN'S DAY

By Allene Sumner

Cup O' News

The child must be saved even if the mother dies. This edict comes forth from the Paris Faculty of Medicine. The feeble national birth rate is given as justification for the movement. The nation is especially worried because 27 babies are born to every thousand French. Thus do mothers pay in a new way for the glory of war and the grandeur of nations.

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY

Breakfast—Stewed prunes, cereal, thin cream, baked eggs, crisp toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Creamed fish in rice cases, bran rolls, head lettuce, lemon sherbert, milk, tea.

Dinner—Baked spaghetti and veal, endive salad with bacon dressing, whole wheat bread, fudge cake, shredded fresh pineapple, milk, coffee.

Rice cases for creamed meats, fish or vegetables are delicious, nourishing, not too expensive and not too hard to make. Beside this they are not "ordinary."

Rice Cases

One cup rice, 3 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 1/2 cups milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon paprika. 1 egg yolk, 1 whole egg, fine dried bread crumbs, melted butter.

Wash rice through several waters and steam until tender. Add salt when half cooked. Let cool. Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Season with salt and paprika and cook three minutes. Remove from fire and stir in beaten yolk of egg. Stir in rice. Pack into a well buttered pan, making a sheet about two inches thick. Cover with oiled paper and put a weight on top. Let stand until cold and firm. Remove from pan and cut into rounds or squares as preferred. Remove centers to form cases. Roll in crumbs dip in egg slightly beaten with 1 tablespoon milk and roll again in crumbs. Brush over with melted butter and put into a moderate oven to heat through and brown. SUNSHINE CLASS

WILL MEET—

The regular meeting of the Sunshine class of St. Paul's Lutheran church will be held at the church Thursday evening. The hostesses for the evening are Mesdames Jessie Follett, Mary Hill, Bessie Schultz, Augusta Marteson, Jennie Wickey, Misses Blondena Bishop, Ethel Kay.

THE LOVERS

These women's clubs, methinks, do grow sentimental. Comes a note from "Program Chairman," telling me of "the famous lover evening" which "our literary club is planning." And will I, asks she, suggest a famous twain other than Romeo and Juliet, and Adam and Eve? I will! Pyramus and Thisbe, Dante and Beatrice, Abelard and Heloise, Thebes and Arladne, Robert and Elizabeth Browning.

Books

If you like stories about noble, capable, efficient business women who turn up their proboscis at this thing called matrimony and then eat their own words and fall in love and marry one of the erstwhile scorned sex, you'll like "Gifts of Sheila," by W. L. George. Isabel married Hugh, Isabel wanted to dominate the home roost and so did Hugh. Hugh wanted to support Isabel and Isabel was too proud to "be kept."

Now—how's this? We quote from the book: "The only men who can live with modern women are those who don't give a damn for them."

Attended "The Miracle" in Chicago, at Auditorium—

Misses Frances Ingraham and Grace Crawford, Mesdames Davies, Sterling and Jay Miller motored to Chicago Saturday to attend "The Miracle."

WERE GUESTS AT ALLEN HOME SUNDAY—

Joseph A. Schaff, and son Paul of Clinton, Ia., and Frank Cleary of Oregon, were guests Sunday at the James Allen home in Dixon.

BY CYNTHIA GREY—

There were orchids in a crystal vase on the white linen. A muted violin wailed "Traumerei" in a corner. Birds in golden cages sang in their cages, and a suave waiter was bearing up chilled orange juice in silver goblets flanked by violet leaves.

We had been "girls together" in that little town of long ago. Bessie was one of a big, roisterous, rather garden variety family. Married sisters and brothers with babies, many babies, all flocking home to holiday dinners. Tired mother. Table linen never too clean. Corners free of dust. Last minute pick-and-scramble meals. Married brothers and sisters all walling about high rents, and how Tom got laid off, and where in the world was the money coming from for little Peggy's tonsillectomy, and you couldn't even buy baby shoes any more for less than $5.

On and on flowed these murky waters of domesticity over Bessie's auburn head. She dreamed her dreams and saw her visions. More than that she fought like a wild cat to "get out from it all."

And Bessie got. She writes advertising copy that makes the very angels float down to her store to buy hair pins and cleaning cream. Her weekly salary is staggering.

Bessie's suite is a restful spot of antiques and amber glass and chimes and a little Filipino maid in uniform who brings foot stools and iced drinks and ash trays for Bessie's smart callers.

Bessie lunches and dines in such an environment just as a casually as does her sister Maggie peel potatoes for the supper of her brood of seven.

Bessie flits to Europe at least annually. Bessie is almost bored of travel. "It's rush down to Chicago or New Orleans or out to the coast and back to New York all the time," she complains.

Perhaps it was our chatter of that little town of the long ago that opened the heart of successful Bessie to me a little. I think I'll pass her message on to Bessie's sisters and their like who mourn the barriers of their home. Its penury, its worries.

"You know just what sort of home I came from, Cynthia," Bessie told me over our first mug of coffee. "Too many children and too little money. Mother always tired and worried. Things topsy-turvy. You know how I vowed to get out of it."

Bessie, wistfully grave under the sweep of her violet French hat, toyed a minute with her silver. She smiled ruefully, then went on—

"Cynthia, I sometimes wonder if every girl does not vision 'getting out' to mean travel, hotel dining, Europe, ordering from a menu card, the whirl of white kid gloves and theater tickets and white kid gloves and books and a brass samovar?"

"The more I talk with girls the surer I am that I am just a typical sample. My sisters envy me for the very things I thought I must have once upon a time. My sisters envy me my narcoles and favials and trips and hotel rooms and hotel dinners—

"Cynthia, it's such a joke! I walk in loneliness. I envy them their homes—their stodge, commonplace homes, but places of peace and security and permanence."

"I live so alone. Friends, acquaintances, yes. But to what extent do one count on them? These holiday dinners which mean so much to my sisters are almost torture to me—so lonely they are—all alone most of the time in the midst of luxury—

"I wish I could make all stay at home women who envy me and my kind really believe how little it all is, and how we envy them!"

Mist o'er crag and canyon sends its outposts spying down—
Summits wear mist—haloes as a monarch wears his crown.
Now and then a shroud dissolves in life-renewing rain
Filled with hidden bud and fruit and billowed fields of grain.

Misty in the mountains while the world grows green;
Misty in the mountains—'tis the spring, I mean!
Misty in the mountains while the world is clear below—
Misty in the mountains where the rhododendrons grow.

GO GETTERS AND LIFE.

Dr. Mattoon Monroe Curtis, for thirty-five years head of Western Reserve University's department of philosophy, told a group of under-graduates the other day that he was so tired of "go-get-em" philosophy that he was resigning from his chair at the university.

The struggle to teach esthetics in a world saturated with talk only of dollars, progress, 100-percentism and that, is too great a battle in this swift age, the doctor thought.

Perhaps after all what tires Dr. Curtis more than anything else is sham. There's quite a bit of it these days. The national pastime has become "putting up a front." There is a great deal of silly superficiality.

The modern highpowered salesman, for the greater part with only technical equipment, and without the background of liberal arts, is a parrot. Ask this highpower fellow a few simple test questions and the chances are great that his front of stern wisdom will collapse. He thinks in a highpower groove. Get him out of his groove and he is as dumb as a punctured drum.

The only remedy is a little time devoted to sincere study of a few of life's finer things that do not immediately mean dollars and cents, but which widen a man inestimably and open up for him an enlarged vista of life.

There is considerable cynicism. It might almost be called the day's trend of thought. But do not be fooled by the cynicism a fool affects to hide his weakness. That also is one of the twentieth century's popular indoor sports, the accler scorning what is fine because he cannot understand it.

There are too many rules of success. Too many young persons are going into life obsessed with the idea that unless they specialize they will be lost. As a matter of fact the specialist can be bought in any market. And the buyer is the all around man who hasn't pinned himself down to the study of any one thing but who studies all things. There is no rule for success that will apply to all men.

SUBSIDIZED PHYSICIANS.

Two New Hampshire town meetings were called upon to consider proposals to set aside sums to induce physicians to locate in their territory. The money was not appropriated. The discussion calls attention to the trend in all parts of the country, the disappearance of the country physician.

Families who depended upon this "institution" now are compelled to determine what shall take his place. Every settlement had its doctor and young men leaving school sought such fields instead of avoiding them. The country physician prospered according to the measure of his patronage, and it was possible to accumulate a moderate fortune in those circumstances. That a man was a country physician was no evidence of inferiority. The small cities and the villages have produced their share of skillful professional men. It may be that now the country physician does not have practice as lucrative in proportion as the one in the city; it may be that the generation now coming into the profession is looking for something more "soft" than physicians sought when they located for country practice, but the trend is toward the cities, and in the cities the trend is toward specialization.

Besides being a physician, the country doctor was an angel of God. He was not yet commercialized. He did not look at the rating of a patient before he rendered service, though that service may here required driving through mud and storm in the middle of the night. He considered that he owed to the public something in return for the education given him by the state at nominal cost. He paid it all back, and more.

But, it is said that his kind is disappearing, and the countryside are trying to get someone to take his place. New conditions are making country residence less a requirement. The automobile has brought the farmer to a place adjacent to the city. The only requirement is a good road.

More hospitals are being established in small cities, there giving service to persons who can be brought to them. In that manner the farming communities are receiving what was almost denied those people only a generation back.

In commenting upon the action of the New Hampshire towns, the Boston Transcript says that in time isolated towns may, in emergencies, obtain medical help from a distance by keeping clear a landing field for airplanes, although that situation is too remote to meet present demands.

Charity discovers a multitude of sins.

A street car on time saves nine cuss words.

During the middle ages they had professional rock fights and it was in Italy instead of in Ireland.

Had a big flood in Ireland. Inundated two counties. Imagine an Irishman not being able to find a brick?

Alarm clocks lead a hard life. They are cursed if they do or if they don't. Just like running a newspaper.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barker

There sat the radio set, on a little brown table.

Mister Tingaling and the Twins Ringtail Coon sat down on the little wooden table in front of his radio and turned on the radio.

When Ringtail gently closed the door behind them, he had a look in his eye that the spider must have had when he invited the fly into his parlor.

It was a very funny look indeed, and I do wish that smart little Nancy or wise little Nick had noticed it. For if they had, they might have saved the little fairy landlady about three bushels and a half of trouble.

But although magic shoes will make you little and take you places, they can't do everything in the world. So nobody noticed the sly look in Ringtail Coon's eye as he closed the door and led them into his sun-parlor where the radio was.

There sat the radio set, on a little wooden table, but before Ringtail turned it on, he invited them to sit down on his willow davenport all covered with cushions.

That willow davenport with its soft cushions! Really, I wish you could have seen it! It was as comfortable as a big feather-bed and a cadillac automobile and a hammock and a wing all rolled into one.

The windows were all open and the breeze blew in and smelled as delicious as a bit of broken perfume. I mean a broken bottle of perfume, and besides it was as cool as though it had been kept on ice for hours.

The poor little fairy landlady was so hot and tired, and the Twins were so tired and hot, that when they sat down on that lovely davenport with all the breeze blowing over them, all three of them felt that they never wanted to move again—tired day or not.

And I'm sorry to say he still had that spidery look in his eye, and that he was shaking with laughter. (To Be Continued)

A STORY OF A GIRL OF TODAY

ILLUSIONS SHATTERED

"Look here," said Miss Lawrence to me as I looked her straight in the face. "I want to tell you something. I may be a sap but I almost believe that you really are innocent. We'll give you the benefit of the doubt anyway, but remember that I've warned you. If you don't watch your step and get all out of Buddy Tremaine that you can, the moment he sees some other girl that pleases him more than you, you will have to bid goodbye to all your ambitions."

"Of course you know he's married!"

"Julie, I thought I would faint. I evidently grew so white that even Miss Lawrence thought I would drop and she helped me to a chair."

"It was then that I, who had thought she was so vulgar and horrid, found out that there is good in all of us, for she immediately became kinder to me after that."

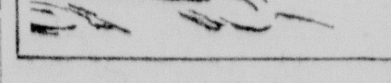

"I can see that you're not to blame in all of this," she said, "but I'm warning you. You will only be on the town in a few months if you go on the way you are going. Your reputation will be gone and even Madame Seris will let you out of the shop. Just now she is making a good thing out of you and that is the reason she is chaperoning you all over town."

"Buddy Tremaine is perhaps the most fascinating man in all New York, built his attentions are like poison ivy to any girl who is seen with him. She is marked after the first contact."

"Everyone knows that wife of his married him for his money, just as everyone knows that he was crazy about her and when he found out that she turned down the man she loved and married him for the grand things he could give her, he became another kind of man entirely.

"Up to this point in his career, he had been a quiet, rather artistic sort of a man who had never paid much attention to any woman but the one he had married. Now, he became a rounder of the worst type. He seemed to want to take it out on all women as well as the woman he married, for her betrayal of him."

"Naturally when his intentions got across Broadway, he had a whole regiment of gold-diggers like myself after him and he has paraded them in front of his wife in every possible way but she goes on calmly as though she had not a care on earth, not seeing him at all when he's with some other woman. She will not give up her position and that's that."

"It certainly was 'that' I, of course, was heartbroken over it all."

Dr. Cummings' Health Column

BY DR. HUGH S. CUMMINGS
Surgeon General, U. S. Public Health Service

Frequently it happens that persons apparently drowned have been restored to consciousness by artificial respiration.

If you are planning a vacation in the out-of-doors near the water you should know how to administer artificial respiration.

In attempting to restore a person apparently drowned the first step should be to remove the collar and loosen the shirt band of the patient. Remove wet clothing as soon as practicable particularly if weather is chilly and replace with dry clothing or blankets.

Lay the patient on the ground face downward. The arms may be raised about the head, one arm flexed so that the forehead rests upon it. The face must be turned slightly to one side so that the nose and the mouth will not be closed by pressure against the ground.

Stand or kneel astride the patient. Place your hands close together, palm down, one on each side of his back, about the region of the short ribs, that is near the middle of the body.

Having placed your hands on the patient in this manner you now lean forward and throw your weight on your hands which are against the patient's back. In this way the lower part of the patient's chest is pressed against the ground and to a certain extent the abdominal contents are forced up against the diaphragm.

Forces Out Air.

The effect of this double procedure is to diminish the capacity of the chest and force out air. The pressure should be applied firmly, but gently and then removed. To remove the pressure simply bend your body backward and take the weight off your hands.

This removal of pressure causes the chest to expand and the organs of the abdomen to recede. These organs recede because of their own elasticity. This expansion of the chest cavity draws air into the lungs through the windpipe.

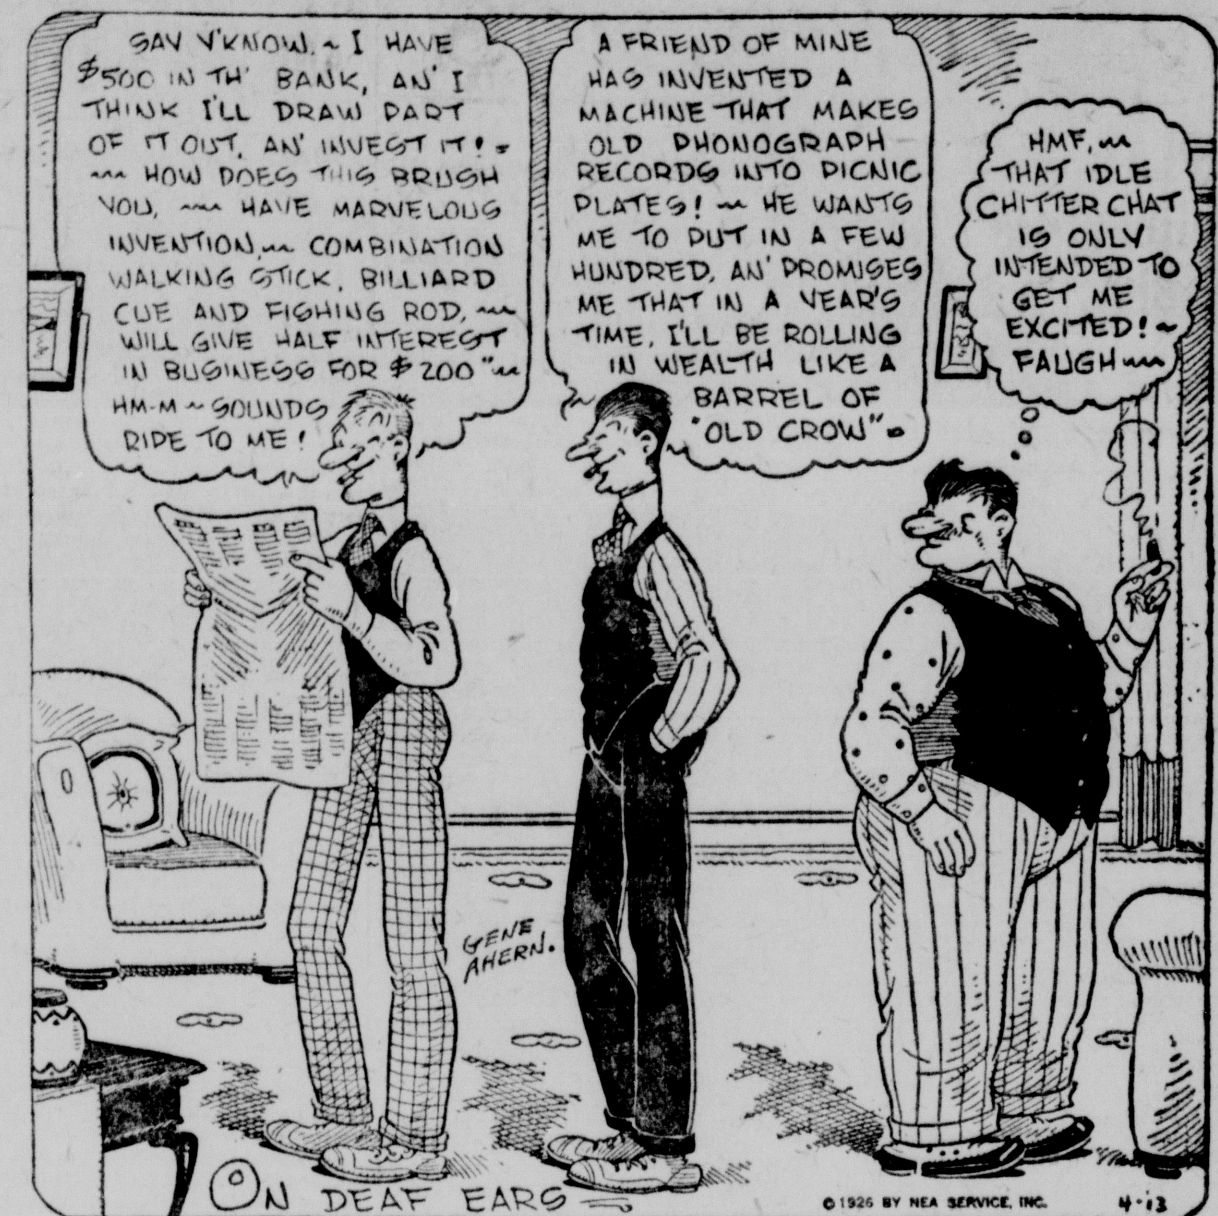

You then pause for about three seconds to allow the fresh air to be come mixed with the blood. Then you repeat the process. This procedure of compressing the chest and the relieving it and pausing for three seconds is continued regularly until the patient begins to breathe.

Timing Movements.

The movements are performed at the rate of 12 to 14 times per minute. About a second of time is required to expel the air and a second to take in the air. This, with the three seconds' pause makes a total of five seconds for the complete cycle.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

BY AHERNS

You may allow your hands to remain in the proper position upon the back after the pressure has been relieved, but no weight should be placed upon them. Swing your body backward and forward with the least possible exertion. This movement can be kept up for a long time without undue fatigue.

It may be necessary to perform artificial respiration for several hours or longer. In rare cases it has been kept up more or less for several days. In any event it should be tried for at least an hour and a half.

Work Until Sure.

A good rule is, perform respiration until it is certain that the individual is dead and then continue for an hour and a half longer. Many people who are apparently lifeless have been restored by long continued effort.

When the air enters and leaves the chest it makes a very audible sound in passing through the paralyzed throat. If this sound is not heard you should infer that the method is not being properly applied. The arms and legs should be rubbed vigorously toward the heart to restore circulation and to bring up the body warmth which must be maintained by hot water bottles or warm blankets. When the patient begins to breathe voluntarily in a regular manner he should be turned on his back.

When he becomes conscious and can swallow, stimulants such as black coffee and aromatic spirits of ammonia may be administered. If vomiting occurs turn the patient's head to one side. When breathing is surely established and the general condition becomes good, put the patient to bed, cover warmly and if cold apply external heat. Care should be taken to see that he has plenty of fresh air.

The old call to battle sounds again today through the baseball world as sixteen major league teams enter the great American classic which leads to pennants and the final crown of world championship in mellow October days.

While the American and National League teams take the post in the major derbies, the American Association opens its 25th years of baseball endeavor.

Clear skies and slightly rising temperatures were predicted for the eight cities entertaining major contests but at that the weather promised to be more suitable for football than baseball.

To Find Hard Going.

The world champion Pittsburgh Pirates and the Washington Senators, twice winners of the American League bunting, will find plenty of competition in their struggles to repeat this year. At least two other teams in the National League look just as good to the dopesters as the Pirates, with an additional two figuring among the possibilities, while the baseball wisecracks see at least five teams prepared to dispute the American League supremacy of Washington.

In fact, the two pennant winners face a stiff test right at the start, with the Senators pitted against Connie Mack's powerful Athletics, and the Pirates set to battle Rogers Hornsby's flashy Cardinals at St. Louis. Mo. Grays' Giants, another leading combination in the National circuit, try their luck against Brooklyn. The work of the Cincinnati Reds and the Boston Braves will be watched closely for pennant possibilities, while in the American ring there are plenty of partisans who look with favor on the St. Louis Browns, the New York Yankees, the Detroit Tigers and the Chicago White Sox.

Giants Are Given Edge.

The Giants are given a slight edge over the Pirates in Wall Street waging with the Senators and Athletics an even choice in the junior circuit. The betting on the Giants is 8.5 and on the Pirates 1.2, with the latter odds for both Philadelphia and Washington. The other National contenders were given the following financial rating: Cardinals, Reds, Braves, Robins, Phillies, Cubs, American: Yankees, Tigers, Browns, White Sox, Indians, Red Sox.

Vice President Dawes has promised to toss out the first ball in the Senators-Athletics contest at Washington. President Coolidge will not attend the opener because of the recent death of his father, but he promised to drop in occasionally during the season. He has been given an engraved pass to American League contests by Clark Griffith, president of the Washington club. A similar pass was mailed to Mrs. Coolidge. Incidentally, Griffith told the President that the Senators would capture their third straight flag.

The entire Senate has arranged to take time out for the game, although baseball was not specifically mentioned when it was agreed to recess at 2 p. m. The upper chamber will open deliberations an hour earlier so that it can knock off three hours in the p. m. half of the day.

Ben Johnson, president of the American League who usually is among those present, will not attend the opener at Chicago. He is bothered with a foot infection.

DIXON COACHES ARE IN DEMAND; BOWERS AND CULLY MAY GO

Clinton Wants Bowers and Monmouth Bids for Cully

With the circulation of rumors, which appear well founded, to the effect that the Dixon high school is to lose the services of Coach A. C. Bowers, who has been asked to assume the same position at Clinton, Iowa, comes talk of Assistant Coach B. O. Cully's leaving the city. The latter has been asked to go to Monmouth and assume the duties of athletic coach this year and is seriously considering the proposition.

Dixon's Rock River Valley conference championship football team of last year, which was built and developed by Coaches Bowers and Cully, attracted the attention of larger and better schools in this section of the country. Clinton, Iowa, not only has a new high school and track in connection, but an enthusiastic corps of students who have gone in heavily for athletics and who are backed by an equally enthusiastic public. Monmouth, where Assistant Coach Cully has been asked to come, has a fine high school and is one of the outstanding schools in athletics in Illinois.

The Clinton Advertiser in referring to Coach A. C. Bowers coming to that city says:

A. C. Bowers, athletic director at Dixon, Ill., high school for the past five years is to succeed Lester C. Belding as Clinton high school athletic director.

Athletic director Bowers will serve as head coach in all sports—football, basketball and track—individual head coaches not being named in the various sports.

T. A. Anderson, business manager of the high school athletic association and assistant to Coach Belding, will be retained in his present capacity. In addition to his athletic work Mr. Anderson will teach agriculture and biology.

Bowers in addition to his duties as athletic director and coach will serve as instructor in chemistry.

A director of physical education will be engaged. He will assist Athletic director Bowers in coaching and take charge of all boys' physical education classes.

While actual signing of contracts has not been completed and no definite announcement is forthcoming from the board of directors of the Clinton Independent school district at this time, The Advertiser is in receipt of information, of unquestioned reliability, which indicates that the above will be officially announced soon by the local board.

Mr. Bowers left Dixon early this afternoon enroute to Clinton and it is expected that contracts will be signed today.

The appointment of Coach Bowers is certain to be a popular one with local athletic followers. He was one of the first candidates mentioned for the vacancy when it became known that Athletic Director Belding was resigning to accept a position at North Carolina university and many of his admirers have recommended him to the board.

During his five years at Dixon high school Mr. Bowers has been highly successful as a coach and athletic director. He was one of the organizers of the Rock River conference, which resulted in a great advance for athletics in that district.

Taking up his work at Dixon when athletics were at a low ebb both financially and in the point of successful teams Mr. Bowers has brought Dixon to the front among schools in this district.

Last season Bowers' football team won the conference championship winning every game and only allowing their opponents two points—a safety scored by Sterling. Mr. Bowers has also been very successful in track and basketball, although his best work has been with football.

During his prep-school career Bowers made all-state quarterback in South Dakota. He later went to South Dakota university at Yankton, S. D., where he was a three sport man, earning varsity letters at football, basketball and baseball.

Being anxious to advance in his chosen profession Mr. Bowers has not failed to keep in touch with everything modern in sport. Last season he attended the Illinois coaching school at which Zuppke and Dobie instructed and in 1924 he attended the Menlow-Rockne school at Culver. This summer he intends to enroll at the Iowa coaching school, which will be instructed by Head Coach Burton Ingwersen of the University of Iowa.

Iowa's Grid Star is

Indefinitely Suspended

Iowa City, Iowa, April 13—(AP)—The University of Iowa's football team for 1926 was dealt a "severe blow" by the indefinite suspension of Nick Kutsch, in the opinion of Coach Ingwersen. Kutsch was indefinitely suspended for violation of a probationary suspension, which was imposed, according to rumors on the campus, because of his participation in several parties at which liquor was available.

Five western conference teams will be among the college athletes competing in the relay carnival April 23 and 24. Iowa, Chicago, Michigan, Ohio State and Wisconsin have all entered teams in the relays and special contests.

Frank Taberski of Schnechtady, N. Y., who claims the world's pocket billiard championship, has not met Ralph Greenleaf, challenger, because a satisfactory contract cannot be arranged, his manager announced at Detroit.

Thirty five men are taking part in spring football practice at Columbia University under Charley Crowley, head coach.

With a newspaper decision over Rocky Kansas in their ten round no-decision battle at New Orleans, Pal Moran, veteran lightweight, is expected to go gunning for a title match, probably in New York. Moran and Kansas both entered the ring over-weight so the title was not at stake.

"Suckers" Who Have Made Good in Big Activities

Springfield—(AP)—Nicholas Vachel Lindsay, who is perhaps the nearest approach to the old-time wandering minstrel the post-war period can boast, was born here Nov. 10, 1879. While he spends the greater part of the year travelling, he maintains a home in Seattle, Wash. He has "sworn off" lecture clubs, literary teas and culture spreading bureaus, because, he says, they are more interested in the fact that he has achieved international fame than in his work itself.

"I have sworn off going to women's clubs," Lindsay said, "because the young local poets seldom come, and the clubs generally refuse to act as patrons of the colleges or high schools where the young poets are to be found. There is much tea, a smooth feeling of servitude, and if there are husbands present, they are the kind of business men who find their chief nourishment in the full page advertisements of office supplies. Their only idealism is to keep their wives supplied with tea, poets and servants, while they themselves, as good business men, keep on looking like planks of the Republican platform and attending peppy businessmen's banquets."

"I have sworn off lecture bureaus of any sort because they send me to people who put me on lecture courses, where I am called on to ape myself, and parrot myself, and recite my oldest verses for people who have not read anyone's verses and have not the least idea of reading mine, new or old."

Mr. Lindsay's recent honeymoon took the form of a hike through Glacier National Park and at present he and Mrs. Lindsay the daughter of the Rev. Franklin T. Comer, Presbyterian minister of Chicago, are touring the southwest.

The Latest and Greatest Improvement in Work Clothing in 50 Years

GAIN! Lee leadership wins! Twelve years ago Lee originated the famous Lee Union All—the first one-piece work suit. Today it is the recognized standard. Lee has become the largest manufacturer of work clothing in the world.

For fifty years there has been little or no improvement in the fabrics used in work clothing. Insurmountable obstacles seemed to be in the way. Improvement? Seemingly impossible!

But the Lee organization set to work on the problem. Ideas were presented to perfect the fabric. Many were discarded. At last one seemed feasible. Experiments. Tests. New machines. More tests. Months of research. Months of disappointment. Then, a discovery. A new Lee discovery!

Again Lee pioneers. This time with the New Lee Fabric. A sensation in the industry. New fabric with 50% more strength. 50% more wear. The most outstanding achievement in work clothing in half a century.

Constantly Lee has set the pace in work gear.

The Lee Guarantee

If you do not find the new Lee to be the most satisfactory and best value-giving garment you have ever worn, you can get a new pair or your money back. (Excluded with tears. See Blue Ribbon guarantee.)

ment manufacture. Dozens of construction features have been originated by Lee. Triple-stitched seams. The widely imitated Lee 3-in-1 hip pocket. Solid brass can't rust buttons. Double welt, reinforced pockets. Can't slip suspenders. Overlaid garments, yet perfectly proportioned. Rip-proof buttonholes. These, and many others—all original Lee creations. And today, the new Lee fabric.

Now Lee leadership is more clearly defined than ever. The combination of these new improved fabrics with superior construction and dozens of quality features sets a new standard in work clothing.

Only in Lee can these new 50% more wear fabrics be found. In honor to yourself see a Lee before you buy. Then compare. And once you wear a pair of Lee Union Alls or Overalls, you never again will be satisfied with ordinary work clothing. You'll say with pride, "I wear the new Lee."

BROWNING MARRIES 15 YEAR OLD MAID PLANS HONEYMOON

"Cinderella Man" Weds
Frances Heenan—Court
Proceedings Thursday

New York, April 12—(AP)—Edward W. Browning, wealthy 51 year old real estate operator, and his 15 year old bride, Frances Heenan Browning, today were planning an immediate honeymoon trip to Europe.

The bride, however, was still under duress, to appear in children's court Thursday in proceedings brought by the society for the prevention of cruelty to children, seeking to have her removed from the custody of her mother, as unfit to be her daughter's guardian.

Mrs. Heenan and her husband, from whom she is separated, attended the wedding. They and less than a dozen other persons including some of the bride's girl friends from Manhattan constituted the party.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple went to a ten room house in Cold Spring, opposite West Point which Browning had leased for a year. Late last night the couple left Cold Spring for this city.

The wedding came as a surprise as Browning less than 24 hours before had been quoted as saying that his relations with the girl was a "closed chapter." Mrs. Heenan also had said her daughter would not marry Browning.

The proceedings begun last week by the children's society were postponed until Thursday when a physician had said that Frances was suffering from burns when acid which according to her story, was thrown by a mysterious person who entered her mother's apartment when she was alone.

OREGON NEWS

Oregon—The Junior Prom which was held at the Oregon Coliseum Friday night was beyond any doubt the prettiest from the Oregon high school has ever had. The decorations were beautiful and the juniors under the guidance of Miss Margaret Redfield, their class advisor, who is the French teacher in the Oregon high school, surely deserve a great deal of credit for the work they did. CHRISTIAN CHURCH NOTES

In the failure of the Anti-Saloon League speaker to appear yesterday, C. V. Allison, until recently pastor at Waterloo, Ia., gave a splendid sermon last evening, a four-square appeal for loyalty to not only the temperance cause and law enforcement as promoted by the church agencies of the land, but stressing high ideals of service and faith in every department of social life.

Church papers are crowded with reports of a wonderful Easter, in spite of adverse weather conditions. The Christian Evangelist, published at St. Louis, Mo., alone carried two hundred telegrams from as many congregations, that totaled in new members nearly seven thousand.

Tuesday evening, Miss Hazel Als-house, 409 College Ave., will entertain the Upstreamers' girls, taught by Mrs. Winifred Wells. The Men's Class meets the same evening, with D. W. Dovey, 403 Bradshaw St.

THE CRIME OF THE AGES

Unbelief is the crime of the Ages, said Rev. Elmer M. Moser at the Evangelistic service at Bethel United Evangelical church last night. He vividly described the awfulness of unbelief and its consequences and declared the fact that all who cherish it will never see eternal life." He said in part: "Unbelief is an appalling sin, a great crime, because it is the rejection of Jesus Christ. It is the closing of the eyes to the light. It rejects the Word of God and renders it all in vain. Unbelief looks at the Lamb of God and sneers and laughs and calls him the fool. It undervalues all the work of the Godhead. In unbelief men call God a liar. It is so terrible that it damns men. It is hideous, demoralizing crime; the blackest of all sins. Unbelief is a sinful condition of the heart and sin is spiritually lawless.

"Unbelief results in keeping man constantly in a place of condemnation. It also renders useless the provisions of the Gospel.

"In its minutest form unbelief deserves eternal damnation; but God so loved man that he gave His Son and whoever surrenders to Him Christ will live in him. When you take the Lord Jesus Christ as your personal Savior, the power that brought Him from the dead energizes you. You cannot live the Christian life in your own strength, but if you surrender to Christ He will live it in you."

This is the concluding week of this special Evangelical Campaign and Evangelist Moser will preach each evening at 7:30. The following are the subjects for the week: "Thirsting for the Second Death," "Heaven—Where Is It, Who Goes There, Will We Know Our Loved Ones?," "A Ridiculous Religion," "Looking Ahead."

BROOKHART OUT AS RESULT OF SENATE'S VOTE

Junior Iowa Senator
Fired; Democrat
Gets Position

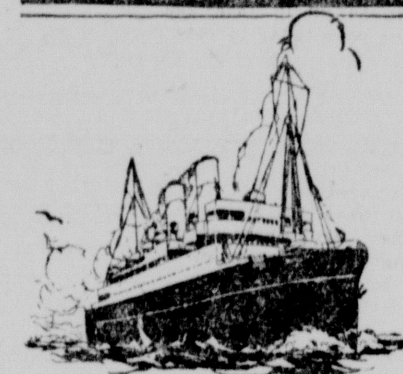

Washington, April 12—(AP)—D. F. Steck, democrat, is the senator from Iowa—not Smith W. Brookhart, republican, insurgent opponent of administration policies and supporter of the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket in the last election.

The Senate so decided late yesterday by a margin of four votes, 16 republicans joining 29 democrats in supporting an election committee report recommending the unseating of Mr. Brookhart, who has held the place for one third of the term, while nine democrats, 31 republicans and one farmer-labor member opposed this action.

One result of the outcome of the contest, which was bitterly fought through the elections committee and during the last week on the floor of the Senate, is that the approaching republican primary in Iowa will be the medium for a fight of exceptional interest, with Mr. Brookhart opposing the remaining republican senator from that state, Albert B. Cummings, who has supported administration policies for the nomination.

All that a Fine Car should be

IN every part of the world motorists of wealth and taste have pronounced the Packard Eight to be all they could ask in a fine motor car.

This international reputation is well deserved. For the Packard Eight provides a more nicely balanced combination of all those qualities universally desired than even the most experienced have learned to expect in any car at any price.

Its beauty, grace and distinction have been acclaimed supreme time after time in European beauty contests, and acknowledged and frankly imitated here at home. Yet the slim grace of Packard lines has not impaired the car's luxurious roominess.

Packard Eight performance has yet to be surpassed by any car, American or foreign. Yet the simplicity of its superbly smooth and powerful eight-in-line motor results in surprisingly economical operation and in long life.

Speed is available to the fullest of man's desires. Yet in its four-wheel brakes lies the insurance of safety—the ability to bring the great car quickly to a smooth and even standstill with the easy pressure of a woman's foot.

Even the bother and inconvenience connected with the care of most cars is eliminated for the Packard Eight owner. For example, the chassis can be lubricated in an instant from the driver's seat.

And with the advanced engineering, the modern design and workmanship, the last word up-to-dateness in style and trim, comes also an indefinable satisfaction in the ownership of a car which has been distinguished by the patronage of social eminence for more than a generation.

Only by driving a Packard Eight can one appreciate what a wonderful, almost living thing it seems. Only then does one realize that Packard Eight owners are not immoderate in their superlatives.

RHONDA MALE SINGERS WILL SING IN DIXON

Famous Organization to Appear Under Auspices of Elks

The Rhonda Male Glee Singers will appear in Dixon for the first time Friday evening of this week, at the Dixon theater under the auspices of Dixon lodge, No. 779, B. P. O. Elks. This famous organization is now touring the west and on several weeks trip, will stop at Dixon. The organization has for its president Vicecountess Rhonda, who was the founder of the company now touring the United States.

David Rees, bass soloist of the company has a run in with a Kansas City policeman last week when the company were appearing in that city. Rees tips the beam at 250 pounds and in company with Prof. Emyln Jones, pianist, who weighs 90 pounds, was dodging traffic in the heart of the metropolis, when Rees collided with a traffic cop. The minion of the law went down in a heap and a crowd gathered about believing the officer had been brutally assaulted. When the excitement had cleared and apologies were made, both cop and soloist shook hands and the officer promised to come to the concert that same evening.

The local lodge of Elks spent some time in searching for a suitable attraction to present to the public and were fortunate in securing this wonderful organization of singers. The program will be open to the public in general and the announcement of the advance seat sale will be made tomorrow.

BITTERNESS!

Tombstone Inscription Brings Climax to Feud Over Tragedy

The tombstone at Kortkamp, Ill., with its offending inscription. Inset, Miss Blanche Bellaver.

By NEA Service

Kortkamp, Ill.—A little more than two years ago a 7-year-old boy, Rester Buttoli, ran out to play in the street in front of his home and was killed by an automobile. And his death began a bitter, bloodless feud that is only now being brought to a peaceful conclusion.

The auto that killed the boy was driven by Miss Blanche Bellaver, 48. Both she and the boy were of Italian parentage.

Miss Bellaver was detained temporarily while the coroner's jury investigated. The boy's family cried for vengeance, but the jury found the death was accidental.

Then the boy's parents sued Miss Bellaver's brothers, as owners of the automobile, for damages. The court sustained the coroner's jury's findings and held that the death was not the girl's fault. The suit was dismissed.

But the Buttoli's bitterness was only increased by these developments.

And so, a month ago, when a tombstone was placed over the boy's grave with riot guns read riot act and disperse 2,000 mill strikers.

New York—Many a night as I wandered through the night club belt, stopping at this place or at that, I have tried to penetrate the masks worn by the beautiful and inscrutable women and girls who keep alive the illusion of pep and pleasure in surroundings of most obvious alloy.

There is the hostess, who must keep up the continued pretence of being pleased to see each guest, who must night upon night repeat the banalities of studied small talk. There are the cigarette girls who go about ever smiling, the glad handers, and all the rest. The entertainers at least have their particular song or dance number, as they might on the stage and their attitude toward the patronized crowds is largely impersonal.

No, it is the others of whom I have thought—those who have to keep up the everlasting pretence, those who in a certain type of place, must pretend to sip the hip-pocket brand of good cheer and to go on from evening to dawn hiding their thoughts and desires and emotions behind the perpetual smile.

Some get completely "hard boiled" and it doesn't matter. And now and then something happens to strip off the mask and show the human that has gone on living behind it.

There was Peggy, for instance. She had come from Milwaukee. She modeled, she sold cigarettes in a night club, she played hostess. The other night she swallowed poison in a taxi-cab—but didn't die.

I wanted to get married, but— and here Peggy left her story unfinished.

But you can guess the story for yourself. Peggy had all the time, wanted love, a home—perhaps babies. Surely she had wanted love; wanted it enough to seek death when it slipped from her grasp.

Yet, night upon night she went through the careless flask bubbling laughing, dancing, jazzing crowds wearing her mask. Smiling to this one and to that.

Were there not times when she wanted to lift the pieces from the tables and smash them over bold heads? Even as she greeted most cordially an over-fresh tippler, did she not loath him—and all those about him?

Did she not tell herself a thousand times: I hate all this; I want to marry? And one night the hate grew too strong. Peggy hired a taxi, opened a bottle and drank poison.

They say she will live. Peggy defies life. She says she'll be more successful next time.

And yet, in the crowds that Peggy came to hate, were young women

Did You Ever Stop to Think—

BY
E. R. Waite, Secretary,
Shawnee, Okla. Board of Commerce

THAT two very important things to think about are: "What does the home city need to make it a bigger, busier city?" and, "How are we to get them?" THAT it won't even start on the road of better business until it plans first.

THAT there are many ways of improving business in every city. THAT there are many people with many different ideas.

THAT they could not all be put in effect at one time.

THAT some of them would not be practical.

THAT the best way to get started is through the right kind of cooperation.

THAT people cooperating together can get their various ideas together, get them into the limelight by laying them all on the table and then deciding on the ones that will be of the most benefit to all the people.

THAT when that is done, plan to get together to convert these plans into an accomplished fact, then, with the united effort of all, DO IT!

THAT investigation will show that the cities that are always moving ahead are operating that way.

The speaker's charming personality together with her wide knowledge of her subject held the interest of her audience and was a delight to all.

At the conclusion of the talk, the guests were privileged to study the paintings with the use of catalogues explaining the titles and artists of the various pictures, which have been handed out by the reception committee.

Refreshments were served by the committee in charge consisting of Mrs. George Grieve, Mrs. D. W. Taylor and Mrs. A. T. Guest.

HALF A HUNDRED BOYS ENTERED IN CONTEST OF KITES

New Event to be Staged Saturday Attracts Great Interest

Boys Enthusiastic Over Kite Contest

The contest in kite flying put on by the boys' department of the local Y. M. C. A. is a new feature in boys' work for the city. It was hoped that at least ten or twelve boys would sign up for this contest, but so far over fifty boys have put in their names. All over the city boys are discussing the different kinds of kites, how to make them, and how to win the prize for their school. This contest is open to any boy of the City, whether he be a member of the "Y" or not, and for the first kite, that is workmanship, design or shape and flying quality, will mean a prize for the owner of a six months' free membership in the local Y. M. C. A. Boys are also striving to gain points for their school and the winning grade school will receive honorable mention.

The rules and regulations for the contest are as follows: 1. Sticks and paper will be furnished by the Y. M. C. A. free of charge, but any boy may provide his own material if he desires. Boys accepting material for kites are expected to enter the contest on the date set.

2. There is no limit to the size or type of kite.

3. Each contestant must make and fly his own kite.

4. Entries will be made under four classes, namely, three-stick kite, bow kite, box kite and miscellaneous or fancy kites. Contestants may have more than one kite if desired.

5. Judges will be appointed and will pick winners on the following points:

1. Workmanship, (neatness, appearance, etc.)

2. Design or shape (originality, beauty, color, decoration, etc.)

3. Flying quality (steadiness in air, ease of raising, etc.)

Should the judges be unable to make decisions on above points, the contest will further include (1) races

(e. g., letting out two hundred yards of string), (2) pulling pulley (tested by spring scale or by lifting weights)

The contest will begin promptly at 2 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, at the North Side Athletic Field. All kites must be in hand (not in the air) at that time.

Local Volley Ball Team to Tournament

Word was received this morning that arrangements have been completed for the District Volley Ball Tournament to be held at Rockford, Saturday of this week. Dixon has been invited to enter a team and has already accepted the invitation.

Our local team has met most of the teams entering already this year. With some they are standing a good chance to win but with others it will require every bit of ability that local players have and so the Tournament is sure to prove interesting and full of spectacular plays.

Captain John Weiss is rounding out his team for this trip and says he will have the best team that Dixon has yet put on the floor.

Complain of Freight on Sand and Gravel Shipment

Chicago, April 13—(AP)—At a hearing today of the Illinois Commerce Commission the Sand & Gravel Works of Moline, Illinois alleged that three railroads, the Chicago Burlington & Quincy, The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific and the Rock Island & Southern were charging them rates that were discriminatory to them.

An order will be issued by the commission after further hearing.

VOLIVAS FOE

Zion, Ill., April 13—(AP)—The Rev. Thomas Nelson, pastor of an independent church here who has been embroiled in many contentions with Wilbur Glenn Voliva, general overseer of Zion, during the last decade, is quitting his pulpit.

The Rev. Mr. Nelson, a former supporter of Voliva, announced that he is going to Waukegan, Illinois, to conduct a tabernacle.

When the Rev. Mr. Nelson broke away from Voliva and organized his own church, Voliva publicly termed him "a tom cat, a discredited wind bag and a blatherskite."

The preacher alleged libel and brought suit against the overseer and obtained a verdict of one cent and costs.

"I am not quitting because Voliva has licked me," the preacher told his congregation last night. "Opportunity for service appears to be greater in Waukegan."

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

FROM J. E. HILBERT

Editor—Read your article regarding my accident at Clinton, Iowa on March 7th, and while it was slightly erroneous regarding my name and the cause, I was pleased to have it published, advising friends of my confinement in this hospital.

I do not drive a car, but was run down on the street crossing by a car swinging around the corner at great speed, giving me no chance to escape. Of course a woman was driving, but it is only natural that a man should fall for a lady, and I fell hard, about twenty feet ahead of the car, but did not strike on my head, for, hard as my head may be, it might have cracked it. As you all know, I served my time on the Telegraph in the eighties, and, knowing how to set a "form" so it would not pl. I kept my own intact. Am leaving for Chicago, April 14th.

Sincerely Yours,
John E. Hilbert.

THESE BEAUTIFUL MEN

Is the doctor right—are men more beautiful than a young man named Byron F. Rivers, who lives in Louisville, Ky., and who is made up for a part in a college play. At the right is Miss Fay Lanphier, "Miss America" in the last Atlantic City beauty pageant.

By NEA Service

Berkeley, Calif.—Woman the beautiful sex?

Not on your dimpled knees—at least, not on the place where the dimpled knees ought to be!

Avant with the praises of beautiful woman. Put on the record, or tune in on the station, that sings of the pulchritude of man, the sterner sex!

Men are the beauties. Women, the affronts to our aestheticism! The professor knows beautiful boys when he sees them, because his job is to pick three boy beauties—"supermen"—from the school each year.

And no beauty contest judge ever had so hard a task as does he when the lovely, pretty, beautiful boys come trooping around the professor of pulchritude, all attired in their outside-woolies bathing suits, showing every pulchritudinous charm.

The professor cogitates on his subject thus—

"Take girls in bathing suits. What do you see? Bumps and cave-ins and all sorts of imperfections."

"Now take the boys. What do you see? Greek Gods, straight as saplings, filled out where they ought to be filled out, and scooped out where they ought to be scooped out."

"Look at the chorus man—handsomely formed, rarely lean, rarely stout." Then the professorial champion of the beauty that is the male's hands this out to the girls—

"Girls do everything to promote their beauty—gaudy dress, cosmetics, unceasing care. Men do not dress to enhance their beauty or think much about it."

"And yet—women remain unattractive, gipsied, clumsy, too thin, too stout, round-shouldered, and men are true objects of human beauty."

And it's all because the male exercises more and lives more naturally, summarizes he!

BURBANK WILL BE LAID TO HIS REST AT SUNDOWN

Ingersoll's Funeral Address to be Read by a Friend

Santa Rosa, Calif., April 13—(AP)—Santa Rosa prepared today to inter the body of its first citizen, Luther Burbank. Beneath a sturdy Lebanon Cedar near the cottage in which he lived during the early days of his experiments, the famous horticulturist will be laid at sundown.

The services will be simple. The tribute of the unorthodox as well as that of the believer, will be rendered unto him. The services will begin at 4 o'clock. Somewhat distant from the Burbank home, the public will gather for a memorial service. The Rev. G. S. Dutton, pastor of the First Unitarian Church of San Francisco, will deliver a funeral sermon commending the soul of the plant wizard to God.

Later Judge B. B. Lindsey of the Denver Juvenile Court will read the funeral oration which Robert Ingersoll, agnostic, delivered over the body of his brother in 1879. The latter eulogy will be delivered at the request of Burbank who asked that Ingersoll's words be spoken over him as his body is committed to the earth.

Latex, the milky-white liquid that flows from the bark of a rubber tree, is the source of all rubber. The United States Rubber Company ships latex from its rubber plantations in the Far East to its tire factories. Special machinery treats tire cords in a latex bath and lays them side by side, producing Web Cord. See below.

A—Latex-treated Web Cord. Note how each cord lies smooth and parallel and absence of cross tie-threads.

B—The old-style cord structure with cross tie-threads and uneven position of cords. Compare with Web Cord.

Here are the Answers to your Questions about Latex-treated Web Cord

Q—What is Latex-treated Web Cord?

A—Web Cord is the special cord structure developed by this Company for Royal Cords and other United States Tires.

Q—How does Latex-treated Web Cord differ from the cord structure used in other makes of tires?

A—Each individual cord from which Web Cord is made is latex-treated by immersing the cords in a latex bath. The cords are then laid side by side and when the liquid dries they become webbed together by pure, natural rubber.

Q—Don't other manufacturers treat their cords?

A—Some do, but not in latex.

Q—What is the object of treating cords with latex?

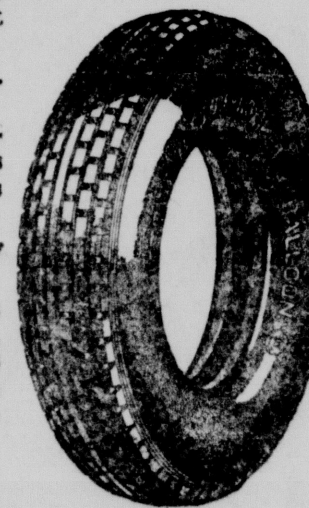

A—All tire cords must be impregnated with rubber. Using latex impregnates the cords with rubber, without using chemicals.

Q—Why don't other manufacturers use the Latex Process?

A—The Latex Process was developed, patented and is owned by the United States Rubber Company.

Q—What are the advantages of Latex-treated Web Cord?

A—Greater flexibility, strength and longer life in cord fabric. The Latex Process surrounds and protects each cord with rubber and webs it to its neighboring cords with a flexible rubber coating. This does away with the necessity for cross tie-threads.

IS CIVILIZATION DONE WITH WOOD?

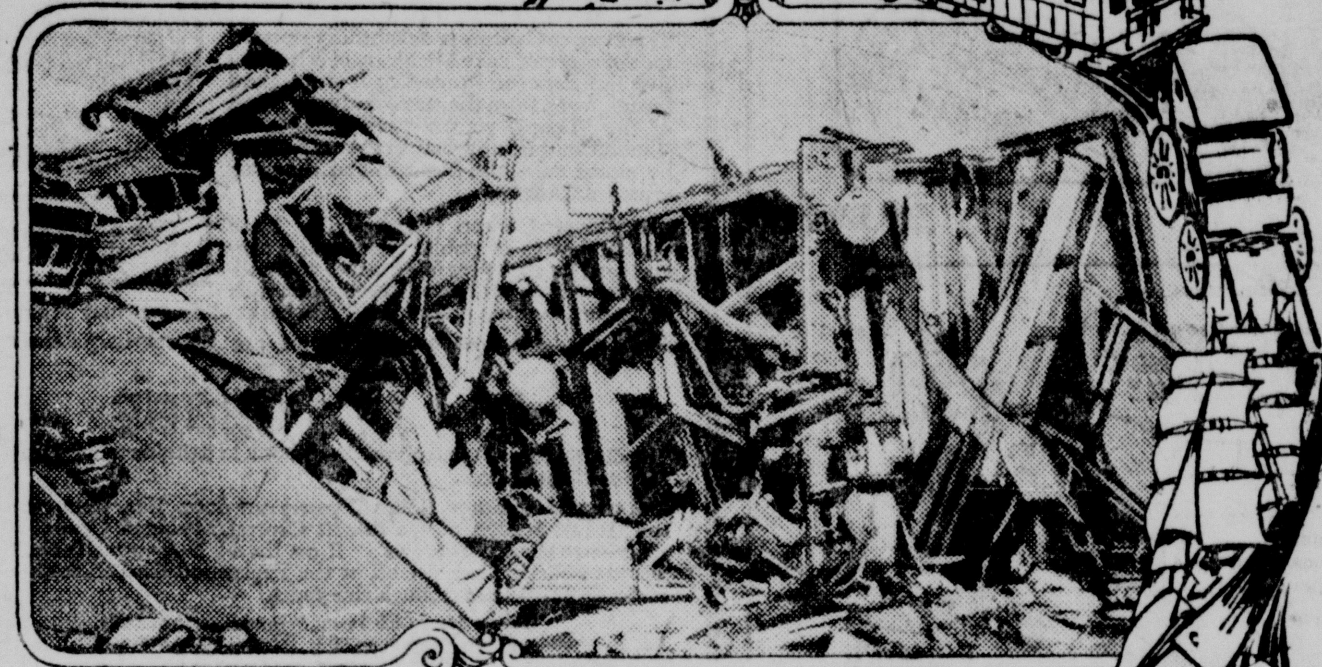

Modern Demand for Increased Speed and Greater Safety Calls for Steel Construction. Automobile Industry Heeds Trend of Progress.

THERE is a case long pending between civilization and wood.

Probably no other material has figured so prominently in the progress of man. His first weapon was wood—the club. The flint axe head only made the axe more effective, as did iron and bronze later on. His first home was a bower of boughs, his first boat was a raft. Man climbed up from savagery on a wooden ladder.

Progress has placed a great strain on the ladder.

The rungs began to creak dangerously even back in the ages of bronze and iron. As life and its growing requirements became more and more strenuous, steel became more and more necessary until

Wood forced out by steel in the march of progress

Splintered wooden automobile body.

today civilization is mounting by a ladder of resilient steel to heights undreamed of a generation ago.

Speed—Today's Watchword

The usefulness of steel has grown in a direct ratio with the increasing speed of modern life, particularly during the last quarter of the twentieth century. Many can still recall the day when the wooden buggy with its high, frail wheels was good enough for our riding. The "Buffalo Bill" wooden railway coach, which we now regard as a quaint antique, was plenty good enough when thirty miles an hour was our idea of real speed.

But wooden coaches splintered in wrecks, and the cost in human life and suffering became intolerable. Today all-steel coaches give confidence to everyone who travels at 60 or 70 miles an hour.

The steel ocean liner and freighter are other striking examples of how wood has been forced to give way to steel. In these modern ships are engines working at such speed that their vibration alone would wreck any hull of wood. The latest development in all-steel automobile bodies, built on the safety principle of all-steel railway cars. Safety in this age is directly dependent upon the strength of steel.

Safety and Speed Imply Steel

The need of the maximum strength with the minimum weight has made steel indispensable to the automobile. It needed only the development of the steel disc wheel to complete the conquest of the automotive industry. Manufacturers are taking a hint from the experience of the railroads and are building for safety by the substitution of all-steel bodies for composite wood construction, which is a wooden frame body covered with a metal shell.

Safety is an all-important consideration in modern construction. Strength requires power to protect lives in case of accident and to resist fire after the accident has happened. This power lies only in steel.

Railway construction now emphasizes the fact that it is the mineral, not the vegetable, kingdom that will govern our future progress. The wooden coaches and box cars still riding over steel rails are hang-overs of a past generation.

The concentrated activity and the speed of modern life make it impossible for wood to stand up under the strain. The photographs reproduced here give striking testimony as to the comparative values of steel and wood. One picture is that of a wreck of two all-steel trains, only nine persons were injured and none killed.

Contrasted with this is the wreck of wooden coaches in which 37 persons lost their lives and scores were seriously injured. Many times the wooden cars, burning like tinder, added to the horror of a train wreck. Steel does not burn; neither does it break nor splinter. The other pictures illustrate the greater safety in all-steel automobile bodies compared with those where wood predominated.

A Wooden Coach Horror

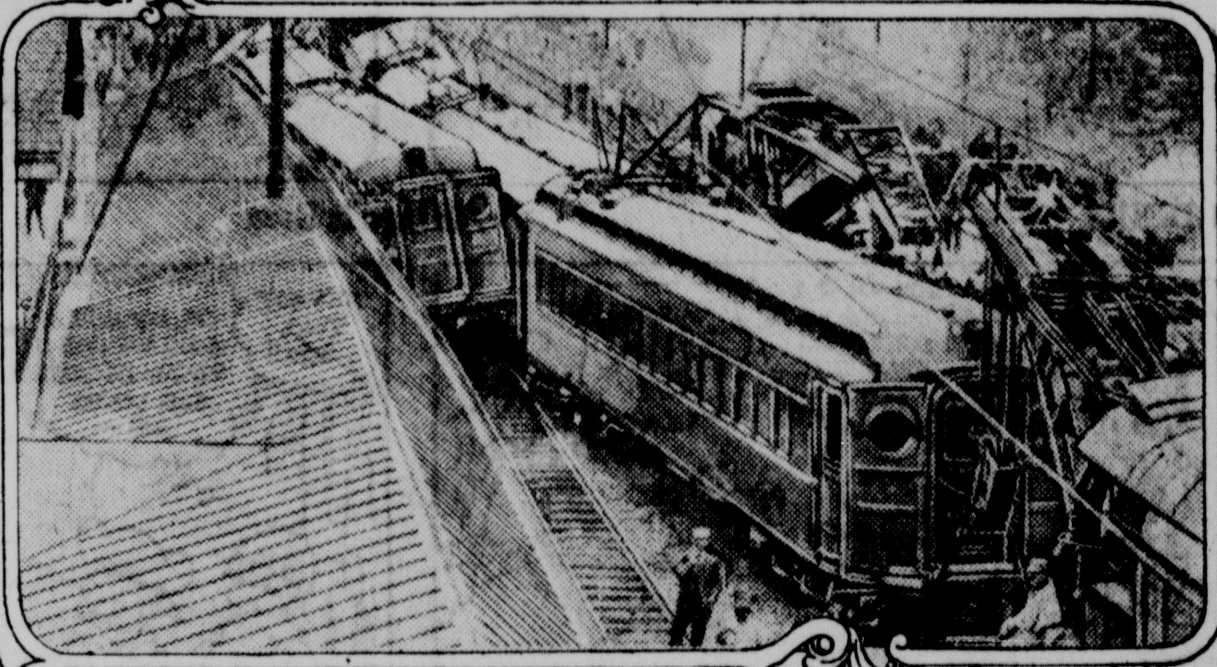

As late as January 18th last, in a wreck on the Williamsburg Bridge in New York, five persons were killed and scores injured when a train of wooden coaches plunged into the rear of a train of steel cars. One newspaper, in an editorial on the wreck said: "When trains collide, even at moderate speed, safety demands that they be constructed of something more substantial than match wood. The type of cars that figured in yesterday's collision is similar to that in which 97 persons were crushed to death in Brooklyn. All such cars should have been retired long ago." Between 1907 and 1923 the toll of deaths by railroad accidents was out nearly in half. In 1907 more than 11,800 persons were killed in such accidents. In 1923 the total was 6,922. Nearly 5,000 lives saved through the protection of all-steel cars.

Evolution of the Auto Body

Many automobile bodies of the present and nearly all those of the past have been derived from the designs for wooden buggies and coaches. Even the names—Sedan, Cabriolet, Landauet—remain. But, as the New York Times said recently, "The present trend of the industry is toward an all-steel body, the motor car's own body, designed for a swift pace and severe strains."

The ever-increasing popularity of the closed car has caused the American Automobile Association to concern itself with the rapidly increasing dangers caused by driving this type of car. Structural "blind spots" caused by wide, wooden body posts, are responsible. In a statement

No lives lost in these wrecks of all-steel trains.

All-steel body prevented serious injury to occupants.

to motorists recently circulated throughout the country, the A.A.A. advises: "Learn that although you can see out better in your closed car than you could through rain curtains, the few obstructions to vision, such as the body posts, are at points you are not accustomed to."

Even Uncle Sam has taken recognition of the fact that more closed cars means increasing dangers to drivers and pedestrians.

Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, recently acted as chairman of the Conference on Street and Highway Safety. A committee on the motor vehicle, which he appointed, struck another blow at wood in its report. It pointed out that in 1924—the last year for which figures were available—automobile accidents caused 21,000 deaths. The injured were not included but would have brought the figures well above the million mark.

of the center line of the vehicle should be aimed at."

Realizing that many thousands more may be needlessly killed in automobile accidents, it is not improbable that Uncle Sam may eventually undertake to regulate automobiles. A prominent manufacturer has recently predicted that in the future laws will require manufacturers to build automobiles with steel bodies just as there are laws requiring all-steel railway cars.

Safety in All-Steel Bodies

The Literary Digest recently quoted a contributor to a New York newspaper who signed himself "Automotive Engineer." He wrote of the increasing danger of wooden automobile bodies, particularly since the decided advent of the closed car. It is this type of wooden frame body, he declared, that presents the dangerous blind spots to driver and other occupants, with their resulting dangers.

"The pillars on either side of the windshield of a closed car have to be strong and substantial," he wrote. "Many makers have been able to accomplish this result by the use of steel pillars of strong but slender section. The result is that the vision of the driver is not cut down materially on the front, left or right quarter view."

"The all-steel body," the writer said, "has done much to show what can be done in the way of unobstructed clear vision. Some of the front pillars on the all-steel cars are remarkably slender and yet they are strong enough to maintain the proper strength and rigidity of the body."

"In the ordinary body there is a wood piece surrounded by steel sheathing. It is a growing tendency on the part of body makers to eliminate more and more wood from the body, so that while the body may not be an all-steel type it may have all-steel pillars and other parts."

"The all-steel pillars are naturally more slender and yet nothing is sacrificed in the way of strength."

What appears to be an all-steel body frequently is a wooden body covered with metal sheathing. Numerous tests have proved that this type does not withstand the effect of collision or other accidents to any pronounced degree. In this type of wooden-metal body, vision is obstructed almost as much as it is in the all-wood body.

The truly modern man has woven his life into a web of steel. His apartment or his hotel, his automobile, the train on which he rides, the elevator that lifts him, the cabinets that protect his papers, and his furniture are all of steel.

Wood belongs to another age.

Big league baseball stars like Walter Johnson, Bucky Harris, Ty Cobb, George Sisler, Coveleski and others cannot afford to be laid up with aches, pains, swollen joints or stiffness a single day, so they must use the best remedy money can buy. The linctment they use out at the ball park works like lightning and in a jiffy relieves aches, pains, stiffness or swollen joints due to sprains, rheumatic troubles, neuritis, neuralgia, etc. A thousand times each baseball season this wonderful linctment does its work in big leagues, professional and amateur baseball circles and yet this linctment they use is so mild it would not harm a baby's skin and never blisters no matter how much you rub it in or bandage it up. The linctment is named after the famous trainer, Mike Martin, the man who for years was trainer of the New York "Yankees," Cincinnati "Reds," Columbia university, etc., and who now is trainer of Washington's 1924-25 American league champion baseball club. It is called Mike Martin's Linctment. Local druggists are featuring it. Any person suffering with aches, pains, lame back, rheumatism, swollen joints, stiffness, neuralgia should get a bottle. It is pleasant to use, never stains and by rubbing a little into the sore, stiff, achy parts you get almost magic relief.

Watch them scamper and prance in rain or shine. You'd never dream they ever had an ache or pain in their lives. Mike Martin by making this linctment available to the general public in drug stores is doing a great thing for those who suffer. NEED LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from impure bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 50c.

THESE WOMEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY HARRY MORTON, wealthy, unmarried, middle-aged and handsome, has maintained for 15 years a home in Rochester, Gossips never have learned anything about his past.

He also maintains an expensive apartment in New York, which he visits almost weekly.

His 19-year-old adopted daughter, AUDREY, is madly in love with him. So is NONA, a New York girl, connected with the stage.

He tells Audrey he never can marry her. To divert her attention, he hires a young secretary, JOHN PARRISH. She detects his purpose. Then he sends for Nona to come to Rochester, having first sent her five thousand dollars with which to buy a piece of jewelry. She comes. Morton tells Audrey that he has made over to her, as his adopted child, half of all his wealth. Audrey learns of Nona's visit, and meets her. Morton and Nona contrive to leave Audrey alone in Nona's hotel room. She finds they have gone out together. Morton leaves Nona at the hotel elevator that night, but does not return home. He has taken Nona to the theater, and about the city, where his friends could see them. Audrey waits up all night for him, finally falling asleep in her chair. At seven o'clock she finds he has not returned home. Kneeling beside his bed, she cries, "She's got him!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY (The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER XIV

MORTON returned home, shortly after eight o'clock. Audrey was sitting on a stool in the hall way, her head leaning against the wall, and her hands clasped in her lap.

He took quick note of the tired circles about her eyes, and of her bloodless face, but he made no comment.

"Hello, dear," he said, stooping over and kissing her.

She looked up at him, her eyes wide and lusterless, and made an attempt to speak. Her throat refused to function, and she emitted only a little questioning sound.

Morton talked on, rapidly.

"Got shaved by a barber, who squirted violet water on me," he said, handing his coat and stick to the maid. "I think he must have put some stickum on my hair, too."

Walking up and down, he rubbed his hands together briskly. "Just about enough time to get a bath change my linen, and go back down town."

The girl had continued to stare at him, her face drawn. At last she managed to speak.

"Nona?" she said, hardly above a whisper.

Morton winced as he caught the agony in her voice, but he kept his tone cheerful and impersonal.

"I suppose Nona will be wondering what has become of us," he said. "We'd better be getting downtown as soon as we can."

She slowly arose to her feet, and moved toward him. Her step was that of one who has been very ill. She placed her hands on his shoulders, and looked questioningly into his eyes. There was something wrong with the smile on his face; it seemed to be fixed there, almost against his will. He made a little gesture as if to take the girl in his arms. Then his hands dropped again.

"You're trying to fool me!" she said, standing motionless.

"Fool you?" he inquired. His voice was artificially alert. Like his smile, its brightness was unreal.

"You've never tried to fool me before."

He looked at her, and for a moment his eyes were fixed on hers. Then he turned away, and went down the stairs.

Nona was on her knees beside the girl in an instant. "Does it hurt you, too?" she cried. "Don't cry, little girl. I've cried, too; it doesn't do any good."

fore," she went on. "Did you—were you—oh, daddy, daddy, daddy!"

Her voice trailed off, and she sank fainting to the floor.

It was a different Morton who stooped, picked her up, and ran with her to the kitchen. To the house maid who ran after him panic stricken, he gave abrupt orders:

"Turn on the ice-water faucet. Fill that glass. When the water comes cold enough throw a glassful in her face."

Audrey's dress was open at the throat, but he pulled it wider.

"Damn!" he swore, half aloud. "On you messy brute! What in God's name have I done! Oh child! Child!"

He was rubbing her hands and wrists, and from time to time wiping her eyes, tenderly, where the water that the maid had thrown remained in the girl's eyes.

When Audrey began to stir, he settled himself on the floor, and drew her head protectively into his lap, with his arm wrapped around the fair curls.

"I've got to go on with the thing I've got to," he groaned. "But I'll forgive me. Forgive me, dearest little child!"

Audrey had refused to go to bed after she finally came out of her faint. She told Morton, listlessly, that she wanted to go downtown with him. While her maid was helping her to dress, Morton hurriedly changed his own clothes. His linen had been crinkled from use the day before, and there was a little streak of soil upon his collar.

Audrey ate a few mouthfuls of breakfast, half-heartedly. Morton himself scarcely was able to eat. He kept his eyes fixed anxiously upon the girl, and his spirits rose as she moved more vigorously and certainly. He was very tender with her as he took her arm, when they left the house, and helped her down the steps, and out to the waiting auto mobile. He held her hand and patted it, absently, from time to time, as they rode to his office.

"I'll be in here only a few moments," he said. "Do you want to wait?"

Audrey responded, almost without interest. "Is Nona up there?"

He quickly shook his head.

"I'll wait down here in the car," she told him.

He hurried inside, up the elevator, and into his office. Without taking off his coat and hat, he called Nona's hotel, and asked for her room. She answered sleepily.

"I'm coming over there with Audrey," he said. "Nona, the poor child is ghastly tired, and in deep trouble."

"I'm sorry, Harry," said Nona. "Truly, I'm dreadfully sorry. Is there anything I can do?"

"Nothing now," Morton told her. "Except I want you to be kind to her."

When Morton and Audrey arrived at Nona's room, she was dressed, but her heavy eyes proclaimed that she had not yet shaken off her drowsiness. Audrey sank into a chair in the corner, and looked out the window, after Nona had greeted her.

Morton touched Nona on the arm. As she turned, he fixed his eyes upon her as if to convey an unspoken message.

"Audrey and I have to go back to New York tonight," he said, slowly. Audrey gave a little start. Nona nodded her head.

"I'm glad," she said. "You know, I'm afraid I'll lose my job in the show if I stay away too long. Can I go back tonight, too? Is it all right?"

Audrey spoke. "We'll go back together, you and I—and she turned her eyes toward Morton—"and our sweethearts!"

She crumpled in her seat, and buried her face in her hands.

Nona was on her knees beside the girl in an instant. "Does it hurt you, too?" she cried. "Don't cry, little girl. I've cried, too; it doesn't do any good."

Audrey looked up, and put her hand on the other girl's arm.

"My heart hurts me so," she said. "I'm afraid—I'm afraid I'm going to die."

put his arm about her. "Are you sick, dear?" he gasped.

She did not answer him, but kept her hand on Nona's arm.

"Nona, I've got to ask you," she went on. "Where were you—were you and he together last night?"

Her voice was imploring, as if it were raised in prayer.

TWENTY-FIVE DIED IN BLAST ON STEAMER IN GULF

Oil Tanker Blows Up With Frightful Toll of Death Yesterday

Port Arthur, Texas, April 12—(AP)—The blackened hulk of the Oil Tanker Gulf of Venezuela today rode quietly on the waters of the bay where early yesterday a gasoline explosion aboard her tore out her vitals and killed 25 men, climaxing a week of oil disasters in the southwest.

The buckled plates, scorched sides and twisted superstructure of the tanker tell a mute story of how the metal of the ship was heated to a glowing whiteness in two furious hours during which the 25 men were incinerated.

Rending the quiet night with a terrific detonation while the men slept in their quarters, the explosion shot a flame of burning gasoline 150 feet into the air. The blast took several members of the crew with it and left the others imprisoned in a shell of hungry flames.

None who slept in the quarters of the crew escaped but several of those on deck were saved with more or less serious injuries. The toll of injured today stood at 19 in the hospital with two missing. About 50 men were dismissed from the hospital after receiving emergency treatment.

The cause thus far remains undetermined, but it was the opinion of refinery men that the explosion was due to the overflow of a compartment, the gasoline coming in contact with steam pipes.

RECENT DISASTERS BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Disasters to the oil industry in the west and the southwest in the last five days have cost 57 lives and approximately $15,000,000. They are as follows:

April 7—Fire caused by lightning burned thousands of barrels of gasoline at the Union Oil Company of California tank farm at San Luis Obispo, California. Extinguished after three days with a loss of two lives and upwards of $7,000,000.

April 8—Lightning struck a tank on the farm of the same company at Brea, Calif., causing a loss of $3,000,000.

April 9—An explosion aboard the Standard Oil Tanker O. T. Waring at New Orleans, killed five.

April 9—Fire at the Magnolia Petroleum Company's tank farm at Luling, Texas, caused a loss of $100,000.

April 9—The Standard Oil tanker Thomas H. Wheeler and the Dutch steamer Silvanus collided in the lower Mississippi river near New Orleans. 5 dead. The loss to the Wheeler and the Silvanus is estimated at $3,000,000.

April 11—Explosion aboard the Gulf Refining Company's tanker Gulf of Venezuela at Port Arthur, Texas, snuffs out 25 lives and causes a loss of about $1,000,000.
